ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Document data is constituted of a plurality of objects different in attribution, and layout information of the objects. Each object is associated

5   with size information indicating a relation between an output area size and an object size when the document data is outputted. When the document data is outputted to an output apparatus, the magnification of each object is changed and outputted in accordance with the 10   output area size of the document data.